The Happy Household. HAPPY HOUSEHOLD: I am a young girl, beneve in all girls learning to cook. I send a few Gold Cake .- One and one-half cupfuls sugar, onehalf cupful butter, one cupful sweet milk, one teaspoonful cream tartar, one-half teaspoonful soda, a little nutmeg, three cupfuls flour, yolks of six eggs well beaten. Mix the sugar and butter to a cream, add milk and egg and other ingredients slowly. Graham Recad. - Three pints of Graham flour, one pint of wheat flour, one cupful yeast, half cupful molasses, a teaspoonful salt. Mix, with lukewarm water, as stiff as you can stir with a spoon. Let it rise over night, and bake in a moderately hot oven. Frosted Lemon Pudding .- Take a pint of bread or cake crumbs, a quart of milk, the juice and grated peel of a lemon, the yolks of three eggs; sweeten to the taste. When baked, cover over with jelly. Make a frosting of the whites of the eggs and a little sugar; pour over the top, and set in the oven a few minutes to brown, -Kittle Wilcox.

The lace rage of the past few seasons has developed many new ideas in these desirable goods, which are worn more than ever on dresses, wraps and bonnets. The Angora laces, looking like embroidery, with silk and applique effects in velvet; others with colored silks combined, giving an Oriental appearance to white and eeru laces. Metal laces are in high favor as a gamiture for velvet bonnets, and good taste will require but little of this material. Copper laces are very desirable, and we are assured that in Paris this is truly a season for gold laces. Silver does not meet with as much favor. Elegant bonnets are imported in black lace over colors, trimmed with ostrich plumes. Black mull embroidered in colors is also to be used for bonnets, and gray crepe de chine shows an embroidery of Autumn icaves in their natural colors that is exquisite. A bonnet of this is made over satin, trimmed with brilliantly tinted velvet Autumn leaves.

OLD-PASHIONED PLAYS. The Editor suggests, as a pleasing diversion to the Club, that each one send an account of the games and plays with which the children of the family have been amusing themselves, particularly those which have been handed down from grandparents to parents and parents to children. As a starter, here is a street game, built up from old nursery rhymes, which a short-hand writer, sitting upon his door-step in a quiet street in St. Louis, overheard some children singing to an amusing air. The little playmates had joined hands, and they went round and round in a ring as they sang. The short-hand writer made notes of the words, and here they are:

Oh, sweet beans and barley grows For you or I, or nobody knows. This is the way the farmer stands— This is the way he holds his hands: He stomps his foot and claps his hands, And turns around to view his lands.

He's waiting for a partner-He's waiting for a partner: Open the ring and choose one in And kiss her as she enters in.

AMERICA FOR AMERICANS. PRIENDS OF THE CLUB: To me the most interesting part of The Tribune is the Conversation Club. In looking over the last issue I saw that one of the questions to be discussed was: Resolved, That Chinese immigration should be prohibited in the United States.

On this question I take the affirmative. Not only should the Chinese be stopped from settling in this country, but all foreigners, no matter what their nationality. It has been shown by numberless statistics and records that a large majority of the prisoners in our jails and the poor in our almshouses are foreigners. Thus we, the freeborn citizens of America, are forced to support the outcasts of tyranny and despetism. I say all kinds of for-eign immigration should be put a stop to, and I am sure every loyal boy and girl born under the glorious Stars and Stripes will say the same. Would like to hear from the Club.—Harry R. Moser, Sixth and Ferry streets, Easton, Pa. WAS LINCOLN GREATER THAN WASHINGTON? FRIENDS OF THE CLUB: On this question I take the negative. Washington, with his fortitude, his courage, his calmness in defeat and victory, and his faith in his cause, secured not only liberty for our country, but by the inspiration which these things gave to others, in an indirect way secured the liberty of other countries. The freeing of the blacks would never have happened had not Washington freed the whites. Washington did more than any other person in securing religious liberty. Without that Sunday-schools could never have existed in this country.-Thornton Cooke, Highland Park, SUNDAY MEDITATION. Practical Buties Taught by a Study of the International Sunday School Lesson Appointed for Oct. 25 .- 2 Ki., 12:1-16. [One reading these notes should first carefully tudy the paragraph from the Holy Scriptures as

In addition to reading as above, one must not neglect to read also 2 Chr., 24: 1-14.] We are to study the account of the repairing of the temple at Jerusalem in the reigh of Jeheash. Solomon built the temple, and it was dedicated about 150 years before the improvements under Jehoash.

Jehoash was son of Abaziah and Zibiah, grandson of Jehoram and Athaliah, nephew of Jehoshaba, who was wife of the priest Jehoiada. His grandmother (Athaliah) was a daughter of Omri, King of Israel, and so a sister of Ahab and sister-in-law of Jezebel.

It was a fearful mistake, a crime, for Jehoram, King of Judah, to marry Athaliah. She was no friend to Judah, to Jerusalem, to the temple, to the true God. Though wife of Judah's King, she was, at heart and in practice, a worshiper of Baal. When her son (Ahaziah) died she put to death, as she supposed, every one who could lay claim to the scepter of Judah. But God had promised David the time should never come when a descendant of his should be wanting to the throne. While the slaughter of all heirs to the crown was Athaliah's purpose, Jehoshaba seized Jehoash, an infant of but one year in age, and carried him to the temple. Being the wife of Jehoiada, she found no trouble in gaining access to the temple and enjoying special privileges within it. She then cared for the young heir to Judah's throne for six years. Meanwhile Athaliah ruled over Judah.

When Jehoash was seven years old the priest Jehojada took steps to inaugurate him King. So well did he plan that Athaliah was slain and

There was special reason why Jehoash should feel peculiar interest in the temple. It had been his safe refuge from "that wicked woman," (2 Chr., 24:7) Athaliah, for six years. He notices the shabby condition of the building; 150 years would tell on any structure. Then we read. in 2 Chr., 24:7," The sons of Athaliah * * had broken up the house of God; and also all the dedicated things of the house of the Lord did S. L. Susong, Susong, Tenn., 1; Dick, Dodge City; they bestow upon Baalim." He decides to repair the building: but money must be released. Two plans were adopted. We cannot tell how long Jehoash had been > ruling before he determined on putting the temple into good condition. We notice, he was first to call attention to its unfit state. The first plan for raising funds was the setting apart several classes of offerings. Articles, which had been presented to the temple and which could be converted into money, were to be sold. All sums voluntarily contributed by visitors at Jerusalem were added to the fund. Then, many, moved by an impulse similar to that which prompted Jehoash, would gladly offer extra sums toward such a purpose. Further, all male Jews over 20 years of age, urged to adopt this plan and to call the attention of every individual to the matter. Every priest and every Levite would have special friends and acquaintances. These should be visited and invited to help.

Some years passed on, and it was found that no fund was accumulating. The priests could Annie's Conundrum-1. The last one takes the not have been enough interested. Probably egg with the dish. 2. Five, when peeled. 3. not much money was raised. The 10 tribes had seceded, and nothing could be expected from them. Then Baalism found friends even in the palace. Religion was at low ebb. The priests and Levites could probably secure, with all moneys paid, a very moderate support.

Jehoash saw another plan must be adopted He seemed offended. He had been ruling 16 years, and the temple was vet in a shameful condition. He told the priests to hasten (2 Chr., 24:5), but years had gone by and nothing had been done. He rebuked their slowness and want of zeal. The priests were pleased to be relieved of the responsibility of securing so large a fund. Jehoiada prepared a chest, and bored a hole in the lid. This was first placed within the temple walls, but at length it was put just outside the gate of the temple. The attention of the people was stirred up, and they were urged, in memory of David and Solomon, out of love for their nation, and especially from regard for Jehovah, to be liberal. Each day the chest was found with generous offerings and emptied, the contents put in bags. The opening and the counting were by two persons, who would thus be a restraint to each other against any temptation to dishonesty. We read in 2 Chr., 24:11, "Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance."

Carpenters, masons, stonecutters, brasiers, blacksmiths were put to work. Men who stood in such high esteem in the confidence of society that their bills were not examined, nor their accounts audited, were secured as overseers. They dealt faithfully."

It is noticed in the 16th verse that the incomes of the clergy were not cut off nor diminished because the laity were repairing the

The chests contained more money than was needed for the repairs, and such sums remaining were devoted to the purchase of plate of gold and silver needed in the worship of the temple. (2 Chr., 24:14.) There was call for such utensils; for 2 Chr., 24:7, shows Athaliah's sons took from the temple much of the plate ware and transferred it to the house of Baal. What has this history to suggest for our admonition and encouragement?

1. Do what is right in God's sight. We have many merely human standards of right and wrong. Study God's ideas in these matters. 2. If indifferent religiously, bestir yourselves. Wake up to duty.

3. Rebuke wrong. Jehoash called on Jehoiada and chided him for his slowness in repairing God's house.

4. Realize your individual influence. Jehoiada kept Jehoash in a proper spirit for years. As soon as the priest died the King lapsed into idolary. Many left to themselves go to ruin. Everyone has influence. Exert it for good. 5. Trust God. See how he, by saving Jehoash, preserved his promise to David. How fortunate, providential rather, that Jehoshaba, aunt of Jehoash, married the priest, and so gained freedom of the temple. Then Jehoiada was just the man to inaugurate the King. 6. Ministers should attend exclusively to the spiritual interests of the parish, and leave to the laity the secular. It is not their duty to repair. They should remind the laity if there be any neglect.

7. Do not marry unadvisedly. Athaliah's influence in Judah was very harmful. Study fitness; seek similarity of tastes and religious preferences. Let piety in a suitor have greatest weight in your choice or acceptance. 8. Keep doing right. Jehoash did right only during his uncle's life. (Read 2 Chr., 24:17-9. Be liberal in offerings for religious purposes. The people brought to excess. 10. Do away totally with evil; leave no room

11. If repairing church property, do not do so at the expense of the pastor's salary. (Read 12. Be faithful workmen-honest employees. Establish such a reputation for fidelity, industry and economy, that it will not be necessary to watch you all the time. 13. Be careful in all money matters. Two acted together in opening the chest and counting the money. There are always in every community certain vicious and suspecting persons, who will not be slow to seize on any chance to injure you. If you alone have the disposition of collections, they will express the belief you do not hand over all given; that certainly they must be larger than you account cleanliness being practical at every stage of the

When the queen-consort was a wor- | clean barrels. shiper of Baal, we must expect to find the true faith waning. So soon as there is a lack of interest in religion, church structures become neglected. In the days of Jehoash the worship of Baal was tolerated even in Jerusalem; for some time it took the precedence of devotion to Jehovah. So presumptuous were the sons of Athaliah that they took choice stones and ornaments from Solomon's Temple for the construction of an edifice to Baal. They robbed God's Temple of even its gold and silver ware. That building was a sacred spot to Jehoash. It saved him from the wicked Athaliah. We do not know what a refuge the temple is to us all. We should love our church structures. They doesn't seem to take over 10 years to jump him | make the life of every man more sacred and safe. Some Practical Suggestions for Our Agricultural Readers.

The Journal of Commerce has the following pertinent truths, which young men about to quit the paternal agres for a life in the cities will do well to peruse carefully: "One of the great problems of our day is to furnish the young men with remunerative employment. The professions are all overcrowded. The shopkeepers are by far too numerous. Agencies of tread on each others' toes. Clerks out of employment and willing to serve for a pittance are to be reckoned by the thousands. Bookkeepers with hungry eyes are reading the advertising lists in the vain hope of an opening for their applications, Collectors, messengers, doorkeepers, watchmen, conductors and the great variety of others, already expert, seeking employment in kidred callings, are waiting anxiously for someone to engage them. Every possible form of service that can be reckoned in the list of genteel occupations is anxiously sought after my multitudes who have no other provision for their daily needs. The men who have been trying to live by their wits must go to work at the bench or in the field; of these the soil offers the most remunerative employment. The mass of the unemployed must seek sustenance from the bosom of mother earth. Jehoash throned securely. Think of a sister of Ahab ruling Judah! What rejoicing when a Land is cheap and there is a wide area that descendant in David's line took crown and awaits the tiller. The back may ache and the skin blister in the sun, but the bread can be made without fear of failure if the laborer will be faithful to his calling. It needs less wisdom and forethought than patient industry, and the man with a contented mind may eat his harvest in peace. FEEDING OF HOGS. There are some things to be learned yet in regard to feeding swine healthfully. Every year hundreds of thousands are lost by the prevalent disease called hog cholera, which is clearly caused by errors in feeding and management or by contagion from hogs diseased in this manner. It is a common custom for feeders of swine to force them to consume the excrement of cattle which are fed in the cornfields and are often diseased, and thus communicate disease to the hogs. A large number of Texan and Cherokee cattle are thus fed, and hogs always follow them. These cattle as a rule carry the germs of anthrax fever with them, and their excrements of whatever kind are virulently posionous. No wonder the hogs. compelled to devour this poisonous filth, are infected with cholera, which is closely related to this disease of cattle, and die by thousands, water, and convey the disease to others which work from these sources. The priests were devour the rotten carcases that are left to putrefy in the streams. A reform in the method of keeping and feeding swine is indispensable if the prevalent disease of the feeding season is to be eradicated. - Times. KEEP A RECORD OF YOUR WORK.

The following suggestion of The Dairyman is without doubt excellent, and if followed faithfully could not fail to be of great use to every intelligent farmer: "Every young farmer should have a small book conveniently placed near where there is a light, and every night before going to bed he should write down in it a few, a very few, occurrences on the farm. that have taken place during the past 24 hours. If he has the courage to ask the other members of the family to remind him of what has occurred, he will be able to preserve some interesting and valuable ferms that would otherwise be lest. The little items of record will be par-ticularly valuable when they refer to the live stock; as for instance, births, deaths and service, the date of cows being dried off, evidences of sickness, and, if possible, amount of milk given and butter made from it. Items of these important facts will be read and reread with the deepest interest after the lapse of any considerable time, such as stror eight months. One never tires of items of comparison, while they are of the greatest educating value to young men. They teach the young to reason about these things and to value the facts in preference to the ordinary farmer's method of guess-

HUSK YOUR CORN AT ONCE. The Winter comes on apace, and its approaches are often more severely felt than its direct attacks. It is now time to remember that the husking of corn should not be delayed until the really cold weather sets in. The present month will see the whole corn crop of the United States ready for garnering into the crib and stack, but a large proportion of it will lie out through the rains and snows of November and December. Too many farmers are afflicted with the disease of procrastination-a most costly disorder, and which in this respect leads every year to much discomfert, some troublesome sickness, and occasional deaths from exposure on the damp, cold ground during severe weather while the belated and thoroughly-chilled farmers husk their corn. There is no reason why all the corn crop should not be husked in October during the fine days of this beautiful month. It would help very much to preserve the fodder in a good condition and add to itsordinary value for feeding .- Exchange.

THE FARMER'S BATH. In an excellent article on the advantages of frequent bathing, Colman's Rural World has the following: "The first means of resting is to make one's self clean. If more farmers realized this, not so many of them would leave the harvest or the thrashing machine, or, covered with sweat and dust of the day, eat a hearty supper and go to bed as soon as the chores are done, sleeping in the same soiled undergarments they have worn all day. They always get up tired. Why? Resting consists of two processesthrowing off the effete matter of the body and assimilating a new supply of fresh material from the blood. Now, when the farmer or anybody else goes to bed with the soiled underclothes of the day, with his skin covered with a thin coat of dust and perspiration, the system can't get rid of its effete matter, because the pores are clogged up; while the absorbents of the skin actually convey back into the system the poisonous matter once thrown off, but which has been allowed to stay on the skin and clothes. It should be the rule of all never to go to bed dirty. For morning bathing cold water is the most invigorating, but the tepid bath is the right thing for the evening when one is tired. And, unless one has a wellappointed bath-room in a furnace-heated house. we recommend the sponge bath as the quickest, neatest and most satisfactory method."

Cincinnati, formerly the chief pork packing city, is now exceeded by several other places. - French cheese makers aim to get $150 to $200 yearly per cow. Fine stock, great care and specialties in manufacture are the means.

state, the greater the opportunities for profit. Grass, corn, rye and oats, fed in connection with turnips, beets, carrots, etc., should be converted into butter, cheese or meat, which not only permits of better prices, but leaves the manure for the land - Farmers cannot be too guarded in the isolation and protection of their hogs. Disease is here, there and nearly everywhere, and a little carelessness may be the means of losing an entire herd, while with ordinary care the disease may possibly be entirely avoided. Now that the harvest is over remove the knives from the mowers and reapers to avoid accident and see that all machinery used is properly oiled and stored in a dry place. - Ducks should have separate houses from other fowls. No roosts are necessary, but they should have throughs, as they do not like to pick and hunt on the ground like chickens. - If turnips are fed to cows immediately all classes are so multiplied that the occupants after milking they will give no unpleasant flavor to the milk. The food is eaten, digested and passed off before the bulk of the milk is secreted in the bag. Even onions may be fed to cows without flavoring the milk if given long enough before milking.

S. S. B., Danby, Neb.—Are there any Soldiers Homes which are National institutions? If so, what steps must a man take, who enlisted from a State which has nothing of the kind, to gain admission? Answer. There are National Soldiers' Homes near Milwaukee, Wis.; Dayton, O.; Togus, Me., and Hampton, Va. Address the Governor of the National Military Home at either of the places above mentioned for the necessary information.

M. S. B., Jackson, Minn.—If you are disabled from sunstroke or its effects, you are entitled to pension, providing you have proved your claim therefor. You should write to the Commissioner of Pensions, giving the number of your pension certificate, and ask him the condition of the claim as regards that disability. As we know nothing whatever of the claim, we cannot say whether you can secure pension therefor or not. Furlough rations cannot be collected unless you have the origial furlough to submit in evidence. J. O., Soldiers' Home, Me.-1. Please state how much the Government of the U.S. allows for the barial of ex-soldiers who are not in a Soldiers Home? 2. How long is a set of teeth furnished by the Government supposed to last? Answer. Nothing. 2. The Government does not furnish sets of teeth. L. E. B., Guy's Mills, Pa.-Invisible inks for the purpose of secret memorandums or correspondence, tc., are numerous, and are easily made. We give a few simple recipes, the materials comprising which can be obtained at first-class drug stores. These liquids are colorless when applied; but by the application of heat, such as holding the paper to the fire or by pressing a hot flatiron over it, the writing is developed, as follows: 1. Sulphate of copper and muriate of ammonia, equal parts, dissolved in water, comes out yellow. 2. Onion juice has the same property. 3. Lemon juice, a very weak solution of sulphuric acid, of common salt or of nitrate of potash (saltpeter), will turn yellow or brown. 4. A weak solution of chloride of cobalt, or chloride of nickel, turns to a beautiful green. 5. A solution of nitro-muriate of cobalt also turns green. 6. A dilute solution of chloride of copper comes out yellow. 7. A solution of acetate of cobalt with a last three-named preparations disappears again on cooling; the others are more or less indelible when the writing has once been brought out. J. G. M., Manchester, N. H.-The exact nature of the claim you have against the United States Navy is not set forth in your letter, and we are unable to answer your inquiry as to the sufficiency of identification for that reason; nor can we inform you how to obtain the addresses of your shipmates, unless by advertising in our column "Wanted-Adiresses." We suggest that you write to the Fourth Auditor of the Treasury relative to the question of identifying witnesses. J. M., McKeesport, Pa.-If I was to get a pension by a special act of Congress, could I still prosecute my pension claim before the Pension Office? It was rejected, and I am still working at it. Answer N. P. for D. O., Troy.-If a guardian is appointed by a Probate Judge, can such guardian handle pension money, and pay off old debts contracted by pensioner years before pension was obtained? Can be appropriate pension money as he sees fit, detrimental to pensioner? If guardian was appointed three weeks before pensioner was examined by the board at Washington, D. C., who pronounced pen-sioner all right, and allowed him his pension to imself, and then, after he bringing said pension nome, it is taken away from him by said guardian, is not this a crime against the pensioner and the Government? If not, why not? If a pensioner is capable to contract for material, why can he not pay for same instead of guardian? Cannot a pensioner who is recognized by every fair-minded citi zen as mentally competent, do with his pension as he pleases? Answer. All the foregoing questions can be answered by the Probate Court, from which emanates the authority of the guardian. The latter s under bonds for the faithful performance of his duty, and he is responsible only to the court for the disbursement of the pension money. The pen-sioner's friends can call the attention of the court to any alleged irregularity.

W. F. T.P., Liletown, Ky.—1. Can you give us the number of pension claims that are in the Pension Office, and which have not been allowed or reected? 2. If a soldier served in the late war four years and left his command in July, 1865, is he entitled to the $400 bounty? 3. When will the bounty and back pay be paid to the soldier who was discharged "through Congress last year?" Answer. We cannot, 2. No; he would be entitled only to the installments of bounty which had accrued up to the date of his desertion. 3. That depends upon when the claim will be allowed, and when Congress shall appropriate for the payment of such claims. We cannot fix any definite date. J. E. W., Richmond, Ky .- 1. If the Secretary of the Interior sustains the Commissioner in a case where a rejected claim for increase is appealed, does the applicant have to wait six months from the time the Secretary acted upon his case before he can apply for increase? 2. If the Secretary re-vokes the action of the Commissioner, and decides n favor of the applicant in an increase claim, does the claim then go back to the Commissioner for reconsideration, or is the rating fixed by the Secretary?

3. About how long is it, generally, after the report of the Commissioner is received (in an appeal) by the Secretary of the Interior before the case is taken up and acted upon? 4. Is the Interior Department much behind with appealed pension claims, or do they keep pretty well up? Answer. 1. No. 2. The rating is generally fixed by the Secretary. 3 and 4.

Appeal cases are numerous, and the Department is several months behind. The cases are being worked off in their regular order as rapidly as pos-G. B. L., Ames, Iowa. - Can a person who enlisted in August, 1862, and was taken out of his company by his Lieutenant-Colonel for his service, and by him sent home for disability upon a furlough, but arrested by Provost Marshai in July, 1863, and while being taken back to his regiment deserted or left them, can he get his discharge? Answer. No.

H. T., Hopkins, Mo.—1. How long after application for restoration (with Doctor's certificates) until it is acted upon? 2. Will I be ordered for another examination before I am restored? 3. A soldier took up a homestead in 1880; also, timber claim Not being able to reside on said claims and make proper improvements,-both claims being contested, -is there any way to get back the entry money Answer. 1. We cannot tell exactly; within a few weeks usually. 2. Yes. 3. No.

J. H., Martell, Wis.—1. Put your claim in the hands of a competent and reliable attorney. You seem to have got it in a snarl; or, at least, do not understand it. 2. We do not know what particular person or company or regiment fired the first shot at the battle of Gettysburg, nor at what hour. Mrs. L. C., Newburg, Iowa .- 1. If a widow who drew a pension for her first husband should marry again, and her second husband die, can she be reinstated so as to again draw pension for her first husband, if she should fail to make the necessary proof to get pension for her second husband? He had applied before he died. Answer. No.

right to pension as widow of her first husband was forfeited forever by her remarriage. D. I. W., Northport, R. A Case Resembling that of Gen. Grant. Some ten years ago I had a scrofulous sore on my right hand which gave me great trouble, and under the old-time treatment healed up, but it had only been driven into the system by the use of potash and mercury, and in March, 1882, it broke out in my throat, and concentrated March, 1882, it broke out in my throat, and concentrated in what some of the doctors called cancer, eating through my cheek, destroying the roof of my mouth and upper lip, then attacked my tongue, palate and lower lip, destroying the palate and under lip entirely and half my tongue, eating out to the top of my left cheek bone and up to the left eye. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids, and my tongue was so far gone I could not taik. Such was my wretched, helpless condition the first of last October (1881), when my friends commenced giving me Swift's Specific. In less than a month the eating places stopped and healing commenced, and the fearful aperture in my cheek has been closed and the fearful aperture in my cheek has been closed and firmly knitted together. A process of a new under lip is progressing finely, and the tongue, which was almost destroyed, is being recovered, and it seems that nature is supplying a new tongue. I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can also cat solid food again. If any doubt these facts, I would refer them to
